

SPRING IS HERE

The days are longer, the fynbos is blooming, blossoms are showing their faces - our favourite season has arrived!

Season ready

It has been a tough two years for most of us. At the St James we used the time to do some renovations and maintenance, fully believing that tourism will pick up again. And with Spring, it seems it has - enquiries are coming in!

We look forward to working with you - our staff is fully vaccinated and we follow the required regulations to ensure we keep our guests, and our staff, safe.

We've attached the 2022 rack rates for your information. Please contact us for STO rates and marketing material, e.g. images. Please make that any existing images you have are the most recent, after the renovations. We look forward to working with you, and to show off our newly renovated property!

Knysna news

Destination marketing organisation Visit Knysna has an exciting new website with a wealth of information on things to do in the area, and some great suggested itineraries. Visit it here...

Don't miss the new model train exhibition at the The Knysna Waterfront - complete with some Knysna accents! A must see for train lovers...

An exciting interactive art route is being developed throughout the greater Knysna area by the Knysna Arts Society, Visit Knysna and the Knysna Municipality. Buffalo Bay has been transformed with surfboard art work, mosaics and murals. In Brenton-on-Sea a beautiful butterfly mosaic selfie spot was created as a nod to the endangered Brenton Blue butterflies in Brenton-on-Sea. And in Sedgfield a mosaic "bug" was revealed as the latest addition to the route. We are looking forward to see the other pieces....
